Washington Campus Compact Hosts Mentoring: Skills for Success

WHO: Washington Campus Compact

WHAT: Mentoring Conference

WHEN: 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 4

WHERE: Cascadia Community College, Möbius Hall, Center for Global Learning and the Arts

Washington Campus Compact, in partnership with College Spark Washington, presents Mentoring: Skills for Success convening current and potential college-aged mentors and leaders in mentoring across Washington State to explore the purpose and power of effective college-based mentoring programs.

College-aged mentors, and those working with them, will gain skills to build purposeful and powerful relationships along the mentoring lifecycle.

College faculty, staff and national service (AmeriCorps) members operating mentoring programs will deepen their understanding of innovations, best practices and other strategies for furthering their mentoring models. Additionally, they will hear from experts and students in the field who can provide unique perspectives and share their knowledge and experiences.

Participants will gain, through keynote and plenary presentations, break-out sessions and networking breaks, the skills to inspire college-based mentors to serve Washington's youth.

Representatives from College Spark Washington, College Success Foundation, Washington Mentors, University of Washington Dream Project and KnowHow2GO will present.
